

Past Alumni Association President Death takes Ron Mahanes, '53

Ronnie Armstrong Mahanes, 59, President of the Augusta Military Academy Alumni Association from 1984 through 1986, passed away after a long illness on 4 July 1995 in Sunset, SC.

After AMA, Ron attended the American University and was the previous owner of The Flower Mart and University-Mahanes Florist in Charlottesville, the city where he was born.

While in Charlottesville, Ron was elected president of the Exchange Club. He was a member of the Orange Chapter of Harley Owners Group, and had been active on the Democratic State Committee in his home state, Virginia.

ever had. We were saddened to hear that he had lost his battle to the illness he had fought with such strength and courage." Ron attended the 1995 Reunion in May, though he was too ill to participate in all the functions.

Goodloe Saunders, '57, who bought the flower businesses from Ronnie, said that "Ron lived and breathed AMA. It was his avocation. He was always 'talking up' the school and telling everyone what a wonderful place AMA was, and all it meant to him and his family."

He is survived by his wife, Dora "Doe" Harmon Mahanes; his mother, Virginia Lang Mahanes; his children, Ronnie A. Mahanes, II of Charlottesville, Gary Wayland Mahanes of Charleston, SC, Melanie Lang Mahanes-Scates of Richmond, and Spencer Armstrong Mahanes of Charlottesville; and two step-daughters, Theresa A. Theodose and Lynn T. Theodose of Boulder, CO.

He also is survived by one brother, Dr. James R. Mahanes, '56, of Easley, SC.

Doe is living at 1119 Cleo Chapman Highway, Sunset, SC 29685. Memorials may be made to Hospice of the Piedmont, 1290 Seminole Trail, Charlottesville, VA 22901, or to the AMA Legacy Scholarship Fund, P.O. Box 101, Fort Defiance, VA 24437-0101. (See page 5)

September 1995

Dear Fellow Alumnus:

We were all saddened to hear that our dear friend Ron Mahanes, '53, had lost his battle to the illness he had fought with such courage and strength. Our sincere condolences go out to Doe, and to all of his family and friends. Every Augusta alumnus owes Ron an unamended debt. His every waking thought was for his school, its traditions, and the hoped for reopening.

Ron was a strong supporter of a new program for alumni to honor their school - the AMA Legacy Scholarship Fund. His wish was fulfilled, and now each year the child or grandchild of an AMA alumnus receives a $1000 scholarship to attend college, or some other postsecondary study course.

What better tribute to Ron than a contribution to the Legacy Scholarship Fund in his name! I am humbled and privileged to be the first person to make a donation to the new Honors and Memorials program described on page 5. My donation, and hopefully yours, will help assure that AMA's heritage is preserved, and that deserving offspring of Augusta men get an education.

If Ron can see us now, I know that he is smiling. I believe this is exactly what he would want in tribute to all he did for our beloved AMA, as its former Alumni Association President, and as a Alumni Association Board member for many years. I hope you'll join me in this tribute to a very good friend.

AMA Wilderness Academy plans moving ahead

Colonel Eugene Nervo, operator of the Wilderness Academy in Craig County, VA, has told The Bayonet that he has gotten "the major part of the financing necessary to purchase the AMA buildings and grounds."

By unanimous vote, the Augusta County Board of Zoning Appeals has approved a special use permit which would enable Nervo to open a school for "at risk" boys at AMA as early as September 20. Initially, Nervo would use only the gymnasium and Davis Hall (J Barracks).

Bankruptcy Court

The Federal Bankruptcy Court, which has control of the property since the Culbertson family defaulted on a Crestar Bank loan, has given Nervo until early September to come up with all the necessary funding. Nervo says that "we have overcome one hurdle, but we still have a way to go before we'll have full funding of the purchase."

Neighbors sue

A group of 20 Fort Defiance residents, most of them relatively new to the area, have gone to court to block the sale to Nervo, saying they are concerned about their "safety and well-being." Colonel Nervo, a retired Marine Corps officer, previously had met with local residents, trying to alleviate their concerns. Several of the 20 names on the petition have been questioned by Nervo who indicated that they were added to the petition without the permission of the people named. No date has been set for a court hearing on the petition.
