

Remembering our brothers who have passed from this life

---

TAYLOR, SIDNEY ANDERSON '51

23 July 2004, of cancer, at home in Silver Spring, MD.

Taylor took classes emphasizing electrical engineering at several universities, including Virginia, Maryland, and Johns Hopkins. He worked at Johns Hopkins laboratories for 45 years, starting in 1951. He retired as a senior engineer in 1996.

After retiring, he spent eight years as a consultant with TSC/BIRD as a part of the Navy's Phalanx missile program. He received Navy Meritorious Service Award and a special citation for his contributions to the Navy Surface Missile Systems.

Preceded in death in 2001 by his wife, Barbara, by a son, Sidney, Jr. in the early 1950's, and a daughter, Cathy Taylor Koehn, who died in 1989.

Survived by three sons; Matt, John, and Brad; two daughters, Kim and Robin; eleven grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

At Augusta four years: Honor Roll, Bayonet and Recall staffs, baseball, Tiger football.

(Reported by Hap Starr, '51, and Colonel Frank Pilley, '51. See Hap's tribute to Sid on page 66, The Bayonet, Fall 2004.)

(2004 Fall Bayonet)