

Brett Thompson
President and Owner
Blue Ridge Exterior Cleaning

Brett Thompson is the President and Owner of Blue Ridge Roof Cleaning. After graduation in 1975 and a summer of fun, Brett enlisted in the US Marine Corps, attending Boot Camp in January 1976. After completing Boot Camp, he graduated and worked as a CH-46 mechanic. After leaving the Corps, he started his first business remodeling homes in the Washington, DC. He departed from the DC area in 1985, moving back to the Valley, settling in Bedford, VA. After a short stint there, he relocated to Charlottesville, VA, then Oak Island, NC and settling down in Waynesboro, VA. After 33 years of the remodeling business, he “hung up my tools” and started Blue Ridge Roof Cleaning.

In 2010, he reorganized and expanded his company’s capabilities, changing its name to Blue Ridge Exterior Cleaning in 2010. The company maintains its small business outlook, and has grown from two employees to six, with a fleet of two service trucks.

His pride was in raising a fine young man from 1st grade-on, who now teaches and the head football coach at Francis Scott Key High School in Union Bridge, MD.

Brett has a spent quite a bit of time volunteering at the AMA Museum and also has provided countless hours, utilizing his handyman skills there as well. Brett previously served on the Alumni Association Board, and currently serves on the AMA Alumni Foundation Board. He is seeking re-election to the Foundation Board.
